

Daily Winners — 21 Days (8/27 - 9/25)

How every stock on each day's 9:28 top-30 list actually did, whether the bot bought it or not. Data: Alpaca SIP (the full consolidated market tape — the same trades Yahoo Finance shows, plus minute-by-minute detail).

How "winner" is measured

- Winner = closed above its 9:30 open. The scanner picks at 9:28, so the open is the earliest price the bot could buy. This is what counts for us.
- Yahoo % (vs yesterday's close) is also shown — it includes the overnight gap, which the bot can't capture.
- Ran +5% = at some point during the day it was 5%+ above its open.
- $ made = buying $1,670 at the open and selling at the close (the bot's normal position size: 19% of ~$8,800).

(Bot column: setup J replayed over 8/27 – 9/24; 9/25 was not in that replay.)

What this says

- Winners every day: on average 14 of the 30 stocks closed above their open, and 3 closed 5%+ above it. Only 9/23 had almost none (4 winners, none above +5%).
- The money is in picking the right ones: holding only the winners from open to close would have made $17,462 over 21 days (hindsight). Buying all 30 at the open would have lost $5,739 — more stocks faded after the open than rise.
- Yahoo looks better than reality for us: 369 of 630 were green vs yesterday's close, but only 290 closed above their open. The difference is stocks that gapped up and then faded all day.
- Big winners peak late: of the 63 stocks that closed 5%+ above their open, 48 made their high after 12:00 and 27 in the last hour — only 4 before 10:00. They grind up all day rather than spike at the open.
- The bot caught very little of it: setup J made 9 trades for $+21 while there were 63 stocks closing 5%+ above their open. BFLY on 9/22 (+12.2% open-to-close) was the one big winner it caught.

Every winner, day by day

Stock: open-to-close % (Yahoo % vs yesterday's close; best % above the open, at that time). Bold = closed 5%+ above its open. [BOT] = setup J traded it that day.
